WOMEN REGISTER VOTERS IN CITY

Little Interest Taken in Registration Hoing Held Taday-Only Congressinnal Race lirings Out Few.

For the first thue in the history of Mnysvlile ,women served as election officers at several voting hooths in the city Tuesday when the general registration was held. In all Instances the women proved most efficient clerks and the work of registration was kept up-to-the-minute all through the day.

Very fittle interest was shown throughout the day ln registration, As the eongressional race in November is the only fight at the palls for this year, he voters could muster up but a very little bit of enthusiasm. The woaren voters were not out in large numbers as in the last registration and even the men voters who have been easting votes for years displayed little interest.

llooths will be kept open until 9 o'clock Tuesday night and because of the long hours, it is barely possible that many have put off listing themseives as voters until the eveniug.

Those who do not register themseives today eannot vote in the coming November ejection and it is very lmportant that nil who desire to vote go to their regular voting booth and get their name on the registration book before the polls are closed Tuesday night at 9 o'elock

LYCEUM COURSE AT HIGH SCHOOL BEGINS ON NEXT TUESDAY

Maysville High School Lycenm Conrse For This Winter Will Consist of Seron High Class Numbers -First Next Tuesday.

Superiatendent W. J. Caplinger, of he City Schools, has this to say of this year's Lyceum course which begins on next Tuesday evening: Upon the request of a number of people of the city we discussed the matter of a Lyceum Course with the eachers jast April and after promise on the part of the teachers that they would do their best to seil sufficient number of season tickets to guarantee the course, the following seven numbers were contracted for and will appear on the dates set opposite the names:

Tho Priacess Nadoals Indians, Tuesday, October 10th. The Electa Hunt Concert Company,

Thursday, October 26th. Ash Davis, Cartoonist, Friday, November 17th

Haroid M. Kramer, lecturer and novelist, Wednesday, December 20th. The Pelietisr Players, Friday, Jan-

De Jen, the msgician, Friday, Feb-

rusry 9th. The Smith-Spring Holmes Orchestrai Quiatet, Monday, April 2nd.

As you will observe the first numbor begins next Tuesday night, The teachers have been selling these tickets for the last two weeks, bowever, we do net have more than half enough sold at this time, to pay for the course. We need the support of all of those peoplo that believe in having entertainment of this typo both for the schools and for the community as a

In the first number, Princess Nadonls, oac of the Ojibways, a poet and writer, esptivates the audiones by her recital of original Indian stories and poems. Sho has appeared on the pro-London and has entertained many promlaent people both here and abroad. Three other Indians, one of them being Chlef Koneka White Eagls of the Winnebago Tribe, also appear on this program with her. They wili catertain with Indian costume, lullabys, war dance, etc.

The second number is composed of four musicians of established reputation rendering a program of solos and ensembled work with violin, cello, plano and voice.

The third number is Ash Davis, the cartoonist. Davis has been on the platform as eartoonist and lecturer for a number of years and has press comments from cities all over the United States praising his ability as an entertainer and as eartoonist. The Clncinnati l'ost says that "Asb Davls, the ence at the Odeon last night." Warren (Pa.) Tribunc asys, "Ash Davls was the last number and best of all: It was a fitting climax for our course.'

The fourth number, Haroid Morton Kramer, a novelist, soldier, journalist and leeturer of note is the author of such books as "The Rugged Way," 'The Castle of Dawn," "Gayle Langford" and others. The Frankfort (Indiana) Morning Times says: "More tban 2,000 people packed the auditorium and galleries to hear Kramer who was given round after round of applause."

The fifth number, the Pelietler Players, consisting of three women and two men, is an organization similar to that of the Ben Greet Players. This one alone is worth half the price of a season ticket.

The sixth number, De Jep, tho magician. Most of us are interested in the tricks of the wizard and enjoy an evening of magic. If not instructive, li certainly is entertaining.

The iast number is Smith-Spring-Holmes Orchestrai Quintet which renders a program including trombone and cornet solos and duets, violin, flute, basset horn, cello and vocal solos, saxaphone selections. This quintet was one of the prize numbers at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. This is a high class musical organization whose appearance cost us considerable. Since Maysville is getting tn he a musical town, we should have the house crowded to hear a program of this sort rendered.

When the teachers solicit you, please get the impression that they are working for the educational unlift of the community and that you are doing no more than your duty in helping tn promote a program of this sort.

Fearls Place Is Again Chosen as the Proper Location for Lewisburg

County Board of Education heid here Monday, the members went in a body to the Lewlsburg nelghborhood to again view the several locations offered for the proposed new consolidated school at that place.

Several months ago the Board vicwed these locations and selected the lecution on the Fearis farm just the Lexington Studebakers announced west of Lewlsburg as the most suitable for the proposed new bullding. There was sauch complaint against the Studebaker schedule, including the this location and a petition signed by many patrons of the school was filed with the board asking them to re-conslder. They granted a re-consideration but on Monday after looking over nil preposals and studying each one carefully, they again decided that their first judgment could not be improved

The selection of the Fearis place will be finally certified by the board ber 4 should be the last day for which and the proposed new building will be erccted thereon.

THE BONUS VETO

In the clearest possible terms the President sets forth in his message to Congress the undeniable reasons against the enactment of a bonus law granting large sums in the aggregate to the American vet erms of the great war. His veto is stronger even than it was expect cd to be-so strong in its terms, so unassailable in its logic, that it can hardly be conceived that it will fail to uppeal to one-third of one branch of Congress an deifect the defeat of the measure at least for

The President puts his objections distinctly upon the grounds of the inability of the country at this time to bear the burden of the bonns. He shows, in figures that cannot be questioned, that the Treasury es in no condition now to meet the additional drafts that $225,000,000 for 1924, 114,000,000 for 1926 and $312,000,000 for 1926. a total in four years of $796,000,000, and o tatal estimated cost of more than four billious.

With no means provided in the measure for the raising of this First M. E. South ...... additional revenue: with a deficit now in immediate prospect owing C'ty Mission ...... to the fact that government expenditures have not been brought Scott M. E. (Colored) ....... down to the point of income; with enormous snms going out annually in support of the disabled veterans of the war, aggregating, it is estimated, more than $25,000,000,000 before the end of the course of provisions for their care, treatment and aid, the President regards this proposition as unfair to the country, as imposing an unjust burden upon the people, and as therefore inadmissible, even though there prevails a spirit of unbounded gratitude for and sympathy with the men who gave themselves in the nation's service in time of its Expressing the kernest concern for the welfare of those for whose aid this bill has been drafted and passed by Congress, the President rejects it as a dangerons abuse of the public credit. The certificate plan of payment proposed by it is, he says, "little less Piumville ..... than certified inability of the government to pay, and invites a prac- Dover Baptist ..... tice on sacrificial harter" which he cannot sanction.

In one paragraph the President strongly states the whole case against the honns:

To add one-sixth of the total sum of our public debt for a distribution among less than 5,000,000 out of 110,000,000, whether inspired by grateful sentiment or political expediency, would undermine the confidence on which our credit is builded and establish the precedent of distributing public funds whenever the proposal and the numbers affected make it seem politically appealing to do so.

No matter what the political expediency of their votes to override the veto, members of Congress enunot fail to recognize the sound common sense of the President's message. He has pointed out the wrong that is proposed and stated the case for the people who must pay the cost of this measure. Many of those who will vote to pass the bill, the objections of the President to the contrary notwithstand. ing, will privately applied his course. Many of the veterans of the Women, Sardis Christian .........17 hearty cooperation of every citizen. the "adjusted compensation" plan. The people generally, outside of circles identified with the interests of the veterans of the war. regard the measure from precisely the same standpoint as that taken by the President in his veto.

President Harding has by his action in this matter rendered an invaluable service to the country.-Washington Star.

AGAINST PUBLIC WELFARE.

On the eve of the settlement of the shoperaft strike, the American Federation of Labor went on record as endorsing the strike and promising the strikers "every assistance within its power." At the same moment that the shoperaft leaders were practically admitting that they had been wrong, the Federation of Lahor was encouraging Men, Bethet Baptist (Colored) .....20 them to go on with the strike. Thus the Federation adds to its list of previous acts against public welfare and fair dealing. The Federation backed the policemen's strike in Boston; it backed the threat in 1916 to tie up the railroads of the country unless Congress passed a specified bill by a specified hour; it backed the steel strinke engineered by the I. W. W. leader, Foster, whom Gompers later denounced for his radicalism. The shoperafts struck against a reduction in wages ordered after due hearing of both sides before the Railroad Labor Board composed of representatives of labor, of the roads, and of the public. It was a strike against the government and against the people, who pay the costs of operating the railroads. The leaders of the shoperafts have no negotiated settlements with many roads, under which the men go back to work at the wages fixed by the Board. Yet the Federation of Labor goes on record as endorsing the strike. As often remarked, union labor can be injured-only by its supposed friends

THE ECONOMIC CIRCLE

The wages paid in any industry determine to a large extent the price at which the products of that industry must be sold. If, therefore, the wages of one industry be raised in order to meet the cost of living, the price of the products of that industry must also be raised, and then some other industry must raise its wages in order to meet the increased prices of the first industry. Thus an endless round of increasing wages and increasing prices is put in operation. Moreever, if wages are to be liked upon the basis of the east of living, it will be to the interest of every workman to increase his cost of lieing, so that he may get still higher wages. Thus wastefulness and extravagance would be encouraged, and, with the waste, the demand for goods would increase and cost of living further advance. In this respect, too, there would be set in motion un endless round of increasing wages and cost of living. Theoretically, a wage based on the cost of living is plansible; in practice it is impossible of necomplishment, for each advance in one necessitates an increase in the

RADIO FREQUENSCY

Interesting Wireless Telephony Prob lem Discussed Ably by Crosley Engineer,

Radlo frequency amplification is regarded at present as the most interestlng subject connected with wireless telephony, and Charles Kilgour, who is in charge of the engineering department of the Crosley Manufacturing Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, operators of the radio broadcasting station W L W, has prepared the following interesting explanation of it. Mr. Kligour has death in terms of the layman and made his explanation so simple that a beginner may understand every word of it. Mr. Kilgour sald in part:

"A radio enthuslast is not satisfied with a mere definition of radia frequency amplification. He wants a plan o fconstruction, for a great part of radios fascination is due to the ease with which it is possible to try out various schemes for making audible the infinitesimal waves of the ether which constantly are lapping uper ou raerlals.

"The first essential of a radio fretube. Any standard amplifier tube will serve. Upon the grid of this tube is impressed Incoming alternating current. This is accomplished by connecting one side o fthe secondary coll to th egrld and the other to the fllament circul. No grld condenser is used because the tube acts as an amplifler and not as a rectifier or detector.

"To eauso a vacuum tube to amplify propertly the voltage impressed upon lts grld, it is necessary to place an impedance, or resistance, in the plate circulat, which is the connection beween the plate and the filament. It iso is necessary to hold the plate at a positive potential o fabout 45 volts with respect to the filament. This is accomplished by the familiar 'B' bat-

the plate circult may be obtained in several ways. A high ohmic resist- eliminating interference. This feature ance may be used, but as this has a is rapidly becoming very important high resistance to direct current it with the greatly increased use of radio.

"An Inductance or coil may be used AMPLIFICATION to set up the necessary impedance. An Inductance may have very low olimic resistance and so not interefere with the proper action of the 'B' battery and at the some time, due to its reactance offer high impedance to an alternating eurrent such a swe wish to amplify At the high frequency handled a condencer or capacity effect is always present in a coil. This is equivalent to connecting a condenser across the erminals of the coil. This canacity, together with the inductance of the coll, forms a closed circuit which has a natural period of oscillation or is resonant at certain frequency. It is peculiar quality of such a circult hat is offers a very high resistance to in alternating current of the natural requency of the elrcuit. "In other words such a coll intro-luced in the plate circuit of a vacuum ube will have a high impedance to one requency and will cause currents of hat frequency to be greatly amplified i is essential, hewever, that the amallfier works properly on various wave engths. For this reason the ohmic resistance of the coil may be increased.broadening the range of the amilfier but materially reducing its efficiency.

roblem is the use of a rather small rductance with a variable condenser nnected across its terminals. The time sort of a cricuit is formed as in he last case, but the variable condenser make it possible to change the natural period of the elecult and so amplify a signal of any desire frequency within the range of the conlenser and coil. The ohmle resistance of such a condenser and cail may be very low and paradoxically the laiped ance at resonance as a consequence will be extremely high. In fact sucl a circuit is often said to have infinite mpedance at resonance. It thus serves to bring out the maximum voltage amplification o fthe tube.

"Not only does this tuned amplifier give us the greatest increase in signal strength but it is very effectice in opposes the action of the 'B' battery, Tuning the atenna circuit will, of th eaddition of a step of tuned radio frequency amplicitation which smpllfles one sharly defined and selected wave length will so increase the selectivity of a set that it must be used to be appreclated."
